HAPPY NEW YEAR

GREENWICH CLUB WALKS

Led by Andrea Anthony, a group of notorious Greenwich Club members, fully masked, walked up and down the high-end shops on Greenwich Avenue casing the joints for a heist at a future date. Only Steinway Pianos was left off the list due to the size of the possible take. This was the inaugural Greenwich Club Walks on Wednesday December 2. On December 9, the group met at Cos Cob Park, viewed the 911 Memorial, and then sauntered down to the Greenwich Water Club to see those cool racing shells. These walks are chosen to be not too challenging. Camaraderie and light exercise are the goals. Participants can walk at their own pace and go their own comfortable distance. Watch for e-blasts to join the next outing!

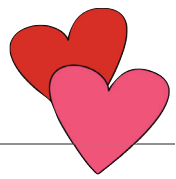

GREENWICH CLUB TALKS— COMING SOON

This will start in late January. On ZOOM we will meet to discuss a TV Show or various TED TALKS. Andrea Anthony will email a 20 minute

Ted Talk to members to view prior to ZOOM. Teds are clever and interesting short talks on multiple topics. There will be a coordinator, not a discussion leader. Details will be announced in weekly emails from the Greenwich Club.

WHAT'S UP WITH YOU?

Again, we asked Greenwich Club members to tell us how they were weathering the COVID storm. Here are their answers.

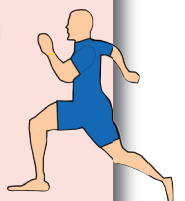

Dick Cutler does exercises on ZOOM, takes walks, keeps up with the news, and tries to stay in touch with friends and family around the country and in Europe.

Ashod Kassabian (AK) has been health conscious, doing yoga, jogging, fasting and watching his diet. He has a woman friend whose company he is enjoying. He is happy to have his son move in with him.

Carolyn Moller has been walking and exercising, spending time with grandchildren, and decorating for the holidays. She is trying to stay positive.

Rose Nichols "decided to embrace the slower pace and grateful that I have been able to try my hand at baking bread, working on my community garden plot, knitting, and swimming in the Sound until November." She also cherished taking care of her two young grandchildren while her daughter works from home.

Sheila Beldon's pandemic time has been full! In her own words, "Enjoying and self-improving—I have read, read, read—often listening to audibles while walking my dogs. Self-organizing my 'She Shed' is challenging and an opportunity for self discovery. As a major course in self-acceptance, I have chances to babysit for my 20-month-old granddaughter Vera."
